PRESS RELEASE

October 16, 2019

6th Street wooden buffalo are up for auction

GLENWOOD SPRINGS, CO – The recycled pallet buffalo sculptures are now available for purchase through an online auction until October 30 at 4 p.m. Anyone can bid in the online auction at www.publicsurplus.com through a search by region and agency or collectables. All proceeds from the buffalo sales will go toward funding public art projects in Glenwood Springs.

The herd of nine wooden buffalo pieces are each available and will be sold separately. The buffalo range in size from approximately 5'x5' to 7'x5'9", with the bull being the largest. Each piece was handcrafted by Krzysztof and Noemi Kosmowski, local Glenwood Springs artists, in 2019.

These pieces were originally displayed at the 6th Street roundabout area in Glenwood Springs as a temporary solution prior to permanent landscaping following the completion of the Grand Avenue Bridge project.
